INVITATION

Dear colleagues, dear friends, on behalf of the Committee of the Czech Surgical Society, 1st Surgical Department of First Faculty of Medicine, Dean of First Faculty of Medicine in Prague, and the head of the General University Hospital in Prague, please accept our kind invitation to take part in XXVI. Prague Surgical Days.

The Prague Surgical Days are organized on October 24th – 25th 2019 with the support of the Traumatological-Orthopaedic Section of the Czech Association of Nurses and in collaboration with other associations of the Czech Medical Society of JEP.

Due to the newly conceived scheme of the scientific Program of the congress, which includes closely specialized topics specifically for the physicians section and specifically for the section of medical professionals in the non-physicians professions, the topics discussed will be discussed separately in the physicians section and the medical professionals in the non-physicians professions section.

A primary part of the program of the physicians section will be advanced postgraduate course of the E-AHPBA prepared in cooperation with Surgery University Medical Center, Mainz, followed by requested lectures on the topic of Surgery of the Liver of the Present.

An important and supported part of the scientific program will be poster presentations.

The congress has the character of a postgraduate education and is guaranteed by the CzMA JEP in collaboration with the Czech Medical Chamber (evaluated by credits) as a continuous educational event. The educational event is organized according to the Professional Regulation No. 16 of the Czech Medical Chamber.

We will be pleased if you accept our invitation and look forward to your attendance and the meeting in Prague.
